THE CROWTHER CASE

"He Came to My House Like a Thief in the Night."

Bed with him.

Hellen C. Hefferan was recalled and testified in that after the birth of the child the defendant talled at her house twice.

The presecution rested here and Edwin D. Crowther was called by the defense. He testified—I am the defendant in this case. I have presided in this city since March, 1888. Prior to that time I resided at Coalville. I lived in polygamy with Ellen Hefferan up to March, 1888. I was at her house on March 10, 1888. I have never admitted the paternity of the child to anyone.

Henors, is Given Another Chance.

James Hodges, a lifteen-year old boy who resides at Mill Creek, was taken before Judge Anderson yestfellay morning upon an application of Justice Russell to have him committed to the reform school. From the testimone tion of Justice Russell to have him committed to the reform school. From the testimony of a number of witnesses it appeared that the boy has for some time past conducted himself very badly, but his father stated that he might be reformed without proceeding to extreme measures. The rooter decided to give the boy; a chance, and continued the case for three months.
